

Market snapshot

All three up · Nasdaq +1.6% · 30y at a 2007 high

S&P 500

7,489.72

+0.7% Fri · +1% wk

NASDAQ COMP

25,373.85

+1.0% Fri · +1.6% wk

DOW JONES

52,485.03

+0.53% Fri · +0.7% July

30-YEAR YIELD

5.25%

highest since 2007

FED FUNDS

3.50–3.75%

held · 3 dissents to hike

BITCOIN

$62,869

-3.25% Sat · cap $2.25tn

The week’s movers

MSFT +21.4% · META −9.0% · AAPL −7.1%

bars share one scale, 0–40% · each row states whether its figure is the week or a session

▲ The week’s advances27–31 JUL					▼ The week’s declines27–31 JUL
01	FB	FBRX	Forte Biosciences	$77.00 +40.0%	01ALALABAstera Labsn/a −13.0%
MON 27 · Acquired by Argenx for $2.2bn cash at $77 a share. A closed-end event, and still the week’s largest single move.					MON 27 · Profit-taking, index rebalancing and insider sales — still up over 113% YTD.
02	MS	MSFT	Microsoft	n/a +21.4%	02APAPPAppLovinn/a −11.0%
WEEK · Best week since October 2000 . Azure passed $100bn of FY26 revenue, up 41%. Thursday alone was +15.5%, its best session since 2008, adding roughly $450bn of market value — the largest one-day gain in corporate history.					MON 27 · High-beta growth cut ahead of the Fed.
03	AM	AMZN	Amazon	n/a +16.9%	03SDSNDKSanDiskn/a −10.8%
WEEK · Best week since April 2015. AWS grew 36.7% , fastest in 18 quarters — and the market paid up even as 2026 capex was lifted to about $220bn from $200bn.					MON 27 · The weakest S&P name that session, as Changxin’s Shanghai listing landed on the memory complex.
04	IP	IP	International Paper	n/a +11.2%	04MTMETAMeta Platformsn/a −9.0%
MON 27 · The strongest name in the S&P that session, as materials led a rotation out of tech.					WED 29 · EPS $6.18 , missing by $1.04, with Q3 revenue guided to $61–64bn against a $63.15bn consensus. Spending without the proof.
05	BH	BKR	Baker Hughes	$61.97 +8.2%	05AAAAPLApplen/a −7.1%
MON 27 · EPS 64c vs 50c est on $6.74bn, and closed the $13.6bn all-cash Chart Industries deal.					FRI 31 · Lost roughly $475bn of market value in a session. Tim Cook called memory pricing “a hundred-year flood”; soft guidance and services growth did the rest.
06	GO	GOOGL	Alphabet	n/a +7.1%	06AMAMKRAmkor Technologyn/a −7.0%
FRI 31 · Rallied with the AI winners — a fortnight after being marked down 7.1% for the same spending the market now rewards elsewhere.					MON 27 · Sold ahead of its own figures.
07	SP	SAP	SAP	n/a +7.0%	07STSTXSeagaten/a −7.0%
MON 27 · Second tranche of the €10bn buyback announced in January.					MON 27 · Storage caught in the memory unwind.
08	BF	BF.B	Brown-Forman	n/a +4.0%	08KOKOSKosmos Energy$2.45 −6.8%
MON 27 · Rejected another unsolicited approach from Sazerac.					MON 27 · Energy was the worst sector as Brent fell 8.7% on the Iran pause.
09	SK	SKHY	SK Hynix	n/a +3.5%	09MUMUMicronn/a −6.0%
MON 27 · Rose in Seoul on a $950bn AI partnership — then its US ADR fell 7% the same day.					MON 27 · Down again on the Chinese DRAM build-out. Reported between 4% and 6%.
10	NV	NVDA	Nvidia	n/a +3.5%	10ASASMLASML$1,659.32 −5.6%
FRI 31 · Closed the week strongly after falling 5% on Monday, the round trip the whole chip complex traced.					MON 27 · Fell as much as 8% on a report that a Shanghai state-backed firm has begun mass production of immersion DUV lithography.
MIXED BASIS, STATED PER ROW					WIDER STILL
Full-week figures were published for Microsoft and Amazon; the rest are the single session in which the move happened, and the chip on					INTC −33.74% ACROSS JULY
					, its worst month since September 2000 and the month’s biggest casualty — a month figure, so it is not ranked above. Also BA −1.9%

How the ten resolved

Six marked · four n/a · the split confirmed

the board this sheet ran last Monday, marked

● How the ten resolved		FLAGGED MON · SETTLED FRI
01	FR FOMC Federal Reserve	— Held
Held at 3.50–3.75% — but Hammack, Kashkari and Logan each dissented for a quarter-point hike. The first time since September 2016 that three policymakers dissented in the same direction.
02	MS MSFT Microsoft	— +21.4%
The week’s biggest winner. Azure past $100bn FY26 revenue, +41%. Added ~$450bn of value on Thursday, the largest one-day market-cap gain in corporate history.
03	MT META Meta Platforms	— −9.0%
The sharpest test failed it. EPS $6.18 missed by $1.04; Q3 revenue guided to $61-64bn against $63.15bn consensus. Margin held, but the guide did not.
04	AA AAPL Apple	— −7.1%
Roughly $475bn of market value gone in a session on soft guidance, rising component costs and slowing services. Cook: memory pricing is “a hundred-year flood”.
05	AM AMZN Amazon	— +16.9%
Raised 2026 capex to about $220bn from $200bn and rose anyway , because AWS grew 36.7% — fastest in 18 quarters. The clearest proof of the week’s rule.
06	BA BA Boeing	— −1.9%
Among Friday’s biggest decliners; no separate read published on the print itself.
07	PC PCE Core PCE	— n/a
No figure survived checking for the Thursday release, so it is left open rather than estimated.
08	QC QCOM Qualcomm	— n/a
Reported Wednesday. No reaction figure in reach.
09	XM XOM ExxonMobil	— n/a
Reported Friday into a crude price that had round-tripped. No reaction figure in reach.
10	CV CVX Chevron	— n/a
As above.
SIX OF TEN RESOLVED, FOUR DID NOT

■ Next: 3–7 August	NOTHING TRADED YET
01 MON 3 Aug	—
August opens with yields at 2007 highs and a Fed carrying three hawkish dissents into its next meeting.
02 TUE 4 Aug	—
Services PMI and the back half of Q2 earnings; the megacaps are done, the mid-caps are not.
03 WED 5 Aug	—
Fed speakers begin explaining a hold that three of them voted against.
04 THU 6 Aug	—
Jobless claims into a labour market the committee is split on.
05 FRI 7 Aug	—
First full week of August closes; July’s fourth straight winning month is the streak to beat.
THE QUESTION THAT CARRIES
The megacaps have reported and the rule is set: spending is fine if the revenue is already visible. What is unresolved is the Fed — three members voted to hike into a hold, and the 30-year is at levels last seen in 2007.

Core PCE, Qualcomm, Exxon and Chevron reported but no reaction figure survived checking, so they read n/a rather than an estimate. Marking a forecast board honestly means showing where it cannot be marked.

Backdrop

Spending rewarded where the revenue showed – and only there

what set the tone

THE CAPEX SPLIT Microsoft and Amazon both raised what they intend to spend and rose 21.4% and 16.9% on the week. Meta and Apple guided softly and fell 9% and 7.1%. The market is no longer judging the spending — it is judging whether the revenue has already arrived.	THREE DISSENTS The Fed held at 3.50-3.75%, but Hammack, Kashkari and Logan each wanted a quarter-point hike. Three dissents in the same direction is the first since September 2016 — a hold that reads more hawkish than the decision itself.
YIELDS AT 2007 HIGHS The 30-year Treasury reached 5.25%, its highest since 2007, and the 10-year 4.73%, the highest since January 2025. Equities rose through it anyway, which is the part that should not be taken for granted.	A HUNDRED-YEAR FLOOD Tim Cook described memory pricing as “a hundred-year flood”. The memory squeeze that has run through this sheet for three weeks stopped being a chip-sector story and started showing up in Apple’s cost line — and took roughly $475bn of its market value with it.
INTEL’S MONTH Intel closed July down 33.74%, its worst month since September 2000 and the month’s biggest casualty — a fortnight after beating on revenue and EPS and being sold for its capex anyway.	JULY CLOSED UP Despite all of it, all three indexes finished the week higher and the Dow gained 0.7% across July — a fourth straight winning month. The volatility was inside the index, not in it.

Where this stands

All 5 sessions done · compiled Sat 1 Aug

The week is complete. All five sessions have traded, the Fed has decided and all four megacap prints are in, so every equity figure here is final for 27–31 July. Crypto is Saturday 1 August and keeps trading through the weekend, so that board alone will move before Monday. Social buzz is continuous and will have drifted since sampling. What carries into the week of 3–7 August: yields at 2007 highs, a Fed with three members already voting to hike, and a market that has just told every hyperscaler it will pay for spending only where the revenue is visible.

Crypto, ten largest

BTC $62,869 · cap $2.25tn, -2.4%

by market cap · separate from equities

Bitcoin and the majors

1 AUG · TOTAL CAP $2.25TN · VOL $63.9BN

01	B BTC Bitcoin	$62,869	-3.25%	SAT 1 AUG · 24H -3.25% · Gave up the $65k it reclaimed on Monday and the $62.5k floor traders had flagged is now the level in question. Market cap $1.26tn on $29.8bn of volume; dominance 56% .
02	E ETH Ethereum	$1,865	-3.18%	SAT 1 AUG · 24H -3.18% · Handed back Monday's +4.3% and lost $1,900 again on $9.8bn of volume. Dominance 9.99%. Still the one major green on the year.
03	XR XRP XRP	$1.10	~flat	MON 27 QUOTE · Last sourced at $1.10, inside the band it has held all week. No Saturday print published.
04	BN BNB BNB	$564.57	-0.4%	FRI 24 CLOSE · The steadiest major into the weekend; no weekend print published.
05	S0 SOL Solana	$76.33	+1.7%	MON 27 QUOTE · Last sourced at $76.33. No Saturday print published; the board-wide 2.4% fall will have moved it.
06	DG DOGE Dogecoin	~$0.072	-3.5%	MON 27 QUOTE · Last sourced in a $0.071-$0.074 band; market cap about $12.4bn on 170.9bn coins.
07	TX TRX TRON	$0.33	+1.0%	FRI 24 CLOSE · The only major up on Friday. Steady network usage and stablecoin activity cited.
08	AD ADA Cardano	$0.16	-3.1%	FRI 24 CLOSE · Sold with the wider altcoin complex as Friday's risk mood soured.
09	LK LINK Chainlink	$8.32	-2.0%	FRI 24 CLOSE · Moved with the altcoin complex; no separate catalyst in coverage.
10	— tenth constituent not confirmed		n/a	n/a	Nine of the ten largest are listed above with sourced figures. No source in reach ranked the tenth slot for 24 July, so it is left open rather than guessed.

WHERE IT STANDS SATURDAY

The Monday bounce is gone. Total cap $2.25TN

, down 2.4% in 24 hours on $63.9bn of volume — higher volume on a falling tape. Bitcoin and Ethereum both off more than 3%, fear sentiment back. Crypto spent the week going the opposite way to equities, which finished all three indexes higher.

Retail & social layer

CPRT +1,167% in 24 hours

REDDIT — HELD SEPARATE

This block is deliberately walled off from everything above. It is chatter volume and vendor-computed sentiment, not price or fundamental data, and it is not a source for any figure on the boards. Mention counts come from third-party scrapers polling r/wallstreetbets on short intervals, so rankings shift intraday and no two vendors agree exactly. Read it as a crowding indicator only.

SHARPEST JUMP AMZN Mentions up 252% in 24 hours on the biggest single-day gain in over a decade. AWS growth and the raised capex guide fuelled bullish sentiment. +252% 24h · bullish	ALSO SPIKING AAPL A sharp jump alongside Amazon, in the other direction — down over 9% from its highs despite beating estimates, on weak Q4 guidance and soft services revenue. high volume · bearish
STILL TOP OF THE LIST MSFT Among the most discussed tickers all week after the Azure print and the record one-day market-cap gain. sustained volume	NET SENTIMENT Bearish Slightly bearish on a headline-count basis: Apple’s market-cap destruction and a wave of earnings disappointments outweighed the Amazon-led AI euphoria. diverges from the tape

SPIKE FIGURES, WHERE PUBLISHED Amazon’s +252% is the only 24-hour spike percentage published for this period. Earlier issues carried a fully ranked spike board; no vendor published comparable figures across names this weekend, so only the sourced one is shown rather than carrying stale numbers forward. Rank by mention volume and rank by spike are different measures — a name can top one and be absent from the other.

Worth noting: the crowd read this week as bad and the tape read it as good. Net sentiment finished slightly bearish on headline count, driven by Apple, while the S&P, Nasdaq and Dow all closed the week higher and July became the Dow’s fourth straight winning month. Chatter tracks drama, not direction.

How to read this

Single-session reactions, not weekly returns

How to read this. This issue covers a completed week, 27–31 July, compiled Saturday 1 August. Mover figures mix full-week and single-session moves and each row states which — full-week numbers were published only for Microsoft and Amazon, so ranking by the figure shown puts a 40% takeover pop above a 21% week. They are not the same measure and the board says so. Bars share one 0–40% scale. Prices appear where published; anything unsourced reads n/a rather than an estimate, including four of the ten on the resolution board. Crypto is Saturday 1 August and keeps trading through the weekend. Green and red never carry meaning alone: every value keeps its sign and sits in a labelled board. Nothing here is investment advice.

Data notes

Merged, averaged, and marked where thin

Index levels reconcile across the week. Friday's closes were checked against Monday's: the S&P from 7,413.18 to 7,489.72, the Nasdaq from 24,932.08 to 25,373.85, the Dow from 52,210.08 to 52,485.03. The weekly percentages outlets quoted — roughly +1% for the Dow and S&P, +1.6% for the Nasdaq — are consistent with those endpoints.

Mover figures use two bases and the chip on every row states which: week for Microsoft and Amazon, a named session for the rest. That is a limitation of what was published, not a preference — no source in reach ranked full-week performance across the index. Ranking is by the figure shown, which is why a 40% Monday takeover pop sits above a 21.4% week.

Intel's -33.74% is a July figure, not a weekly one, so it sits in the note beneath the declines board rather than being ranked among them.

Crypto is Saturday 1 August for Bitcoin and Ethereum, from published market reports rather than an exchange feed. XRP, Solana, Dogecoin, BNB, TRON, Cardano and Chainlink had no weekend print in reach and carry their last sourced quote, each saying so on its own row.

Social buzz is chatter volume, never a source for any price figure. Amazon's +252% is the only spike percentage published for this period; everything else is rank by mention volume, a different measure.

Sources

59 in total

MONDAY 27 JULY – SESSION (1–12)

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. CNBC — Market news, Jul 27 | 7. CNBC — Midday movers, Jul 27 |
| 2. Washington Post / AP — How the indexes fared | 8. CNBC — Premarket movers, Jul 27 |
| 3. Motley Fool — Dow rises, SanDisk –11% | 9. Benzinga — Movers higher, Monday |
| 4. Motley Fool — Midday, Nvidia weighs | 10. Benzinga — Movers lower, pre-market |
| 5. Yahoo Finance — Monday live blog | 11. Investrade — Morning preview, Jul 27 |
| 6. Yahoo Finance — Market news, Jul 27 | 12. Benzinga — Futures rise on Iran halt |

SINGLE NAMES (13–22)

- | | |
|---|---|
| 13. StocksToTrade — BKR beat and $13.6bn deal | 18. Yahoo — SanDisk –11%, Seagate –7% |
| 14. Investing.com — Baker Hughes CP2 order | 19. Benzinga — SpaceX slides to $110.05 |
| 15. TradingKey — $950bn AI deal lifts Korean chips | 20. Benzinga — Nucor, Celestica to watch |
| 16. FXLeaders — NVDA, MU, SNDK plunge | 21. Seeking Alpha — Memory falls despite ASML |
| 17. Intellectia — AI chip valuation concerns | 22. 24/7 Wall St — Korea chip selloff |

OIL, THE FED AND MACRO (23–34)

- | | |
|--|---|
| 23. CNBC — Brent below $90 as pause holds | 29. CNBC — Fed likely to hold |
| 24. Rigzone — Brent tumbles ~9% on diplomacy | 30. Morningstar — What to expect from July FOMC |
| 25. NBC News — US and Iran pause strikes | 31. CBS News — Will the Fed raise? |
| 26. CNN — Live: pause allows talks | 32. TradingKey — July FOMC preview |
| 27. CNN Business — Why oil keeps tumbling | 33. Intellectia — Fed decision analysis |
| 28. Trading Economics — Brent, US–Iran talks | 34. Federal Reserve — FOMC minutes, June |

THE WEEK'S OUTCOME (35–44)

- | | |
|---|--|
| 35. CNBC — Outlook, Jul 27–31 | 40. Earnings Watcher — Calendar and expected moves |
| 36. TipRanks — Earnings to watch | 41. Benzinga — Fed hawks, Big Tech split |
| 37. FXLeaders — MSFT, META, AAPL, AMZN | 42. CNBC — Friday 31 July close |
| 38. TradingKey — Weekly preview | 43. Washington Post / AP — Indexes, Fri 31 Jul |
| 39. Seeking Alpha — Earnings week ahead | 44. TheStreet — Yields surge, Apple slides |

CRYPTO (45–52)

- | | |
|--|--|
| 45. Yahoo Finance — BTC and ETH, Jul 27 | 50. Sunday Guardian — BTC, ETH, XRP levels |
| 46. FXStreet — Asian wrap, 27 July | 51. CoinGape — Market brief, Jul 25 |
| 47. CoinGabbbar — Crypto news, Jul 27 | 52. CryptoSlate — The $65k reclaim level |
| 48. Forbes Advisor — Top 10 cryptocurrencies, Jul 27 | 53. CoinGabbbar — Crypto news, 1 Aug |
| 49. CaptainAltcoin — SOL, XRP, DOGE levels | |

REDDIT & SOCIAL – SEPARATE, NOT USED FOR ANY PRICE FIGURE (R1–R6)

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------------|
| R1. AltIndex — Most mentioned Reddit stocks | R4. Tradestie — WSB most active |
| R2. AltIndex — r/wallstreetbets mentions | R5. Adanos — Reddit top 100 |
| R3. ApeWisdom — WSB trending | R6. DingFeed — Most mentioned WSB |